Special Webinar with Murray Taylor

LEARNING LEADERSHIP FROM SURPRISING SOURCES

Integrating business, life & faith

Murray J. Taylor retired in 2016 after 12 years as CEO of IG Wealth Management (formerly Investors Group), completing 40 years in various roles within the Power Financial Group of Companies, including Co-President and Co-CEO of IGM Financial for 11 years and 25 years with Great-West Life.

Murray has a great passion to serve his community, and has been a member of numerous Boards including the Business Council of Manitoba and Union Gospel Mission. A scholarship was established in 2017 at the University of Manitoba to provide the annual “Murray J Taylor Actuarial Community Involvement Scholarship” to students studying to become actuaries, who demonstrate leadership in volunteerism and giving to their communities.

Over the years Murray has learned that whether you're dealing with volunteers or paid workers, what really makes a difference is ensuring that they are doing something they feel is important and is advancing a cause they believe in. These two things — capturing passion and conveying respect — is really what effective leadership is about.
